A New Secret Organization in Have First Proclamation-The Laborers Called to

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:-Of all associations in this island endeavoring to forward the revolution and to conquer the independ-ence of the country, the most powerful, complete, respectable and efficient in every respect is that of the laborantes. It has in its ranks in all the important cities, towns and villages throughout the island the most inducatial, learned and wealthy men of all classes in each place, and the work undertaken by them is of the most perfect and satisfactory character that has been seen in this country yet.

The association has been in operation but a short ime only, and all prospects before them are already ery encouraging and promising.

The enclosed document is the first one issued by them, and I recommend it to your perusal, request-ing also its publication in your widely circulated paper, if advisable, as it describes the broad asis on which our present glorious revolution is important questions. I am, dear sir, yours re-Secretary of the Executive Committee of the Asso-

The following is a translation of the proclamation

Laborers? Now or never. Unity, discipline, reserve, liberty, Government of the country by the country. Uniton for the defence of families, Guarantees for the future. By persuasion or by force. Cubaus? The patience of nations towards their aggressors becomes exhausted, as the davine good mess three of the pertunctly of the wicked. The mess three of the pertunctly of the wicked of her fotters and recover her rights by the force of reason, if timely, or by the lorce of her arms, now that the war trumpet sounds in her ears and despotant urges her ou to, combat. The Spanish manon has now shown its how to acquire liberty; do not let us despiase the lesson. Our brethren of the Eastern Department are siready fighting heroically for that of Cuba. Let us follow their noble example, and let us prove to Spain and the entire universe that injustice and slavery have not been all powerful in so degrading us as to extinguish the sacred love of our country in our hearts. How the country in our hearts, lower the characteristic and the sacred with the characteristic has overlowed, and therity, with the characteristic has overlowed, and therity, with the slery blast causes, its excesses to boil over. The events now transpiring in the East prove the impotency of our oppressors; that which our brothers are doing, nearly unarmed, cannot we do the same, with more resources and numbering more enthusiastic patriots? Yesl the glory of triumph is sure; the shame of inaction is intolerable. If hitherto, the respiration of Cuba has been suffocated, to-day she can aspire to the ambient air of life with more dilated and vigorous lungs, and can say, face to face to her tyranis, "I also desire to be free;" We will not offer the shameful series of our say, face to face to her tyranis, "I also desire to be free;" We will not offer the shameful series of our say, face to face to her tyranis, "I also desire to be free;" we will not offer the shameful series of our say, face to face to her produce have a superior of the present and for the future. N of civilization and therefore above preoccupation of nationality, the Laborers will respect the neutrality of Spaniards, but among Cubans will distinguish only irlends and foes, those that are with them or against them. To the former they offer peace, fraternity and concord; to the inter hostility and war, war and hostility that will be more implicable to the traitors to Cuba, where they first saw the day, who turn their arms against them or offer any asylum or refuge to their tyrants. We, the Laborers, ignore the value of nationality, but at the present moment consider it of secondary moment. Before nationality stands liberty, the indisputable condition of existence. We must be a people before becoming a nation. When the Cubans constitute a free people they will receive the nationality that becomes them.

they will receive the nanonality that becomes them. Now they have none.

Cubans, of the great family of America, we and our brothers of Porto Rico are the last to bear fetters, and we hear the sound of the lash over the slave's back. The world of Columbus despises and casts us off for being so humiliatingly privileged. Let us shake off its leprosy and joth honored people, and converting our trons into swords, let us keep the ignominions instrument of punishment to cast it at the vampures and executioners who dishonor and innundate Cuba with blood.

Liberty, independence, order, moral and material prosperity will be the recompense of our efforts.

Union, fraternity, discipline, and, above all, the love of free Cuba, is all that we take.

THE JUNTA OF THE LABORERS.

CONDITIONAL LEAVE OF ABSENCE FOR PRESIDENT ACTON. At a meeting of the Board of Police Commissionupon, it was resolved that a leave of absence for three months should be tendered to Mr. Thomas Acton, president, if he would abandon his idea of resignation and continue in office.

This morning, at a quarter to one o'clock, several ors who had congregated in the dance house No. 81 James street became involved in a serious altercation, during which James Kyle drew a knife and cut Frank Richardson in the cheek, inflicting a sight wound. Kyle was arrested by officers of the Fourth precinct station and the wounded man cared for.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY .- There were five hun dred and ten petitions in bankruptcy filed in the United States Court for the Eastern District since the Bankrupt act went into effect. There were no less than fifty petitions filed in that court yesterday, which was the lass day in which the privileges of the law could be claimed by bankrupts. Fire.—Between three and four o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in the four story frame building No. 27 Hamilton avenue. The building was owned by Mr. Louis Stelling, and occupied by him, on the first floor as a clothing store, and on the second as a residence. The upper floors were occupied by a number of poor families. The fire, which is supposed to have originated from a stove on the first floor, spread with considerable rapidity, and before the flames could be subdued the building was almost entirely destroyed. The loss on the building is estimated at $2,000; insured in the Germania Insurance Company for $2,000, Loss on stock, furniture, &c., $2,000; insured in the Germania for $2,200, and New Amsterdam Insurance Company for $2,000, and New Amsterdam Insurance Company for $2,000; insured for $000 in the Germania Insurance Company. News IN BRIEF.—George Graham, a man seventy years of age, left his home, No. 123 Hudson avenue, been missing from her home in East Brooklyn for several days past, and fears are entertained by her parents that she has been abducted by some evil disposed persons. She was a member of Rev. Dr. Blanchard's church, and her unaccountable disappearance has created a great deal of comment in the fashionable circles in that section of the city. Thomas Johnson, an expressman, was arrested by officer Bolten, of the Twenty-ninth precinct, on Wednesday night, on a charge of stealing three horse blankets from Jacob Grostin.

John Schnider was arrested by detective Frost yesterday afternoon, on the complaint of Mrs. Kellinger, residing in Lawrence street, who accuses mim of stealing a gold watch, valued at $100. The accused was engaged at the house as an uphoisterer, and after he left the watch was missed. He was locked up to answer.

At a meeting of the Conservative Soldiers' and Sallors' Association the following gentlemen were elected as officers of the association for the ensuing year:—President, General E. A. Kozlay, 'Vice President, Major J. J. DeBarry; Recording Secretary, Charles Murray; Financial Secretary, Captain Hart; Tressurer, B. W. Ennis; Trustees, Messrs. Dally, Buckhaus and Jeffries; Executive Committee, Messrs. Hogan, Johnson, Heany, Donnelly and McGovern.

It is the highest type of manhood to say that I will not partake of it because I can resist it. He urged again. get away from the snare when he would. It is the highest type of manhood to say that I will not partake of it because I can resist it. He urged every one to forego the use of all intoxicating drink—wine, whiskey or any other kind of spirits—and to set a good example to their neighbors. He respected those who differed with him upon this subject, and while he paid due deference to these he could wish that they would yield that which is the least value to them by affording an example of temperance to their weaker fellow creatures. He would ask those present who were not in the ranks of temperance now, at the close of the year, to throw off the old man and put on the new. Let them with the help of God renounce the evils of drink and tobacco, and be clean men, and go into the new year as such. Nothing would please a father and mother more than to hear their son say, "Here I am, a new soul" (Laughter). I belong to the clean men's party; I have renounced the evil. The speaker never saw a man walking through the streets with a woman smoking a cigar that he could not ram it down his throat. Yet he had heard wives say they liked the smell of tobacco. This could not be true. If any husband wanted to give a present to his wife, let him give her a clean man for the new year. Let the retiring year bear all evil away with it.

A collection was then taken up in aid of the society, after which Mr. Lovetts played, in a superior style, a choice selection of popular airs upon the grand organ, and was encored by the andience for his success. Then followed remarks in humorous strain by Rev. William Galagher, after which the meeting dispersed.

THE HILL MURDER.

Close of the Evidence-The Mysterious German Turns Up, but the Two Strange Men Do Not-Canines as Witnesses-The Summing Up.

At the opening of the court this morning the four dogs belonging to the late Mrs. Hill, which the prosecution had contended were unruly canines, having the delightful habit of snapping at everybody's legs, the delightful habit of snapping at everybody's legs, were brought into the court by a small boy and placed in the box with the jury. The animals seemed very much frightened at the crowd in the room and looked quite harmless. As the small boy was passing out with them toward the doorway a geutleman casually remarked, "Those dogs are of no account, sonny;" when the youngster gazed for a moment at the gentleman with a without look, that could to the nade him sink into his boots, and then exclaimed indignantly, "No account ! why they bark like the mischief at home." Fortunately for the defence the the dogs were consequently allowed to go their wagging ways without cross-examination.

The first witnesses called were a number of gentlemen who testified to the good character for truthniness of the witness, Joseph Gilbert. Detective Warnock was recalled and testified that he, in company with a Mr. Stevens and a Mr. Atkin-son, had gone to the house of Mrs. Hill the day pre-vious and had essayed the unlocking and unlatching of the front door; he could easily bear the noise of the key turning in the lock and the movement of the of the front door; he could easily hear the noise of the key turning in the lock and the movement of the latch, even when he was standing on the pavement—another person experimenting with the key naide at the time; if there was a great noise in the street Be Counc now-set who that it is sound of the key could be neard or not.

Messrs, Stevens and Akkinson corroborated Warnock's testimony; but, on cross-examination, said they had not noticed any noise made by the unlocking of the door when it was opened to let them in when they called at the house.

Dr. Mitchell was here called by the defence and questioned as to the nature of the stain found on the door jam of the slitting room. He testified that he had microscopically examined the spot and was positive that it was not blood.

The prosecution then recalled Dr. Levis. He said:—I saw the wounds on Mrs. Hill's skull after the disniterment; I think they could all have been done by the poker without misshaping it, with the exception of the complete fracture of the bone of the skull; it was not necessary that brain should adhere to the weapon if it had entered into it; if the skull; it was not necessary that brain should adhere to the weapon if it had entered into it; if the skull; it was not necessary that brain should adhere to the weapon if it had entered into it; if the skull gave way before the poker I do not think the iron would be bent, particularly so if the poker first came in contact with hair or some soft substance.

By a juror—I think a rod of iron that would make an impression on any skull I ever saw.

man mentioned yesterday in the evidence of the servant giri, Ellen Dolin, to the surprise of every-body, who had come to the conclusion that he was the murderer, and had fied to parts unknown, was here called, when an uncouti, ill-dressed old man tottered to the stand and was sworn. He testified as follows:—
